· MINDSCAPE ·

The Art of Saying No

...with scripts you can steal

SWIPE →

· WHY ·

Every YES is a NO to something else.

Founders die from over-committing.
Here's how to say no — with grace and scripts.

SCRIPT

01

TO BAD-FIT CLIENTS

'Thanks for thinking of us. This isn't the right fit. Here's someone better: [name].'

SCRIPT

02

TO SCOPE CREEP

'Great idea — I'll add it to V2. Current scope stays as agreed.'

SCRIPT

03

TO LOW BUDGETS

'Our floor is $X. If budget is a constraint, here's a free resource: [link].'

SCRIPT

04

TO 'CAN I PICK YOUR BRAIN'

'Happy to help. My paid consult is $500/30min. If that's not it, here's my best content.'

05

TO NEW OPPORTUNITIES

'Interesting — let me sit with it for 48 hours. I don't make 'yes' decisions in 5 minutes.'

SCRIPT

06

TO BURNOUT REQUESTS

'Not this week. Can we revisit Monday?'
Nobody died from delayed YES.

Every NO to distraction is a YES to your real work.

— Derek Sivers, paraphrased

07

THE UPGRADE

'Hell yes or no'.
If it's not a hell yes, it's a no.
Kills 80% of overcommitment instantly.

RECAP

THE REFRAME

- Saying no is kindness, not cruelty
- Fast NO > slow MAYBE
- Scripts remove guilt
- Hell yes or no
- Every no protects your best work

· CLOSE ·

WHICH NO ARE YOU AVOIDING?

Drop the situation.
I'll write you the script.

SAVE · SHARE · FOLLOW